Par opposition au mot "génocide" (destruction du genre humain), Stepan (Stéphane) Partamian a créé le mot "genolive" (live comme "vivre" en anglais) donc faire vivre le genre humain. to enrich humanity with contributions, in fields ranging from art, music, literature, and cinema to sports, politics, science, technology, and medicine. Partamian has also turned the genolive concept into a palpable project. Since 2009, he has been

Genocide

survivors as well as their descendants in order to showcase their contributions to American civilization and humanity as a whole. And that's only the beginning.

"For every action, there's a negative or positive reaction,"

Partamian explains. "In our case, while we have rightfully focused on the horrific aspects of the Genocide, from the deaths of over 2 million people to the loss of our territories and wealth, we have all but disregarded our nation's stunning strength in regrouping, rebuilding and revitalizing itself, and going on to make contributions to our adopted countries — by creating and inventing things that have helped transform humanity.

The Genolive Project is my way of celebrating and showcasing what is unquestionably positive about Armenian life in the past 100-plus years."

On Friday, April 24, 2020, Partamian will open the Genolive Center, an exhibition and performance space, in Yerevan, as a permanent institute to celebrate Armenian contributions to humanity. Every month, the Genolive Center will showcase an individual Armenian and his or her contributions to world civilization. The Genolive Center will function as a hub for Partamian's "The Armenian World" initiative, through which he will continue to research and document Armenian life in the 21st century.

Partamian also plans on making a major documentary film based on the genolive concept. Toward this goal, he will interview scores of individuals, including not just Genocide-survivor descendants who have made major contributions to humanity, but, as importantly, persons in various countries, including Turks, who are among those benefiting from Armenian contributions. The documentary will also showcase the achievements of those whom Partamian has interviewed since 2009.

As the making of Genolive, the documentary, will require worldwide Armenian support, Partamian is appealing for generous donations to get the project off the ground.

Ո՞վ է Հայը

Ես տեսայ Հայ, որ կը վերաբերեր Լիբանանցիի պէս:

Ես տեսայ Հայ, որ կը վերաբերէ Պարսկի պէս,
Թուրքի, Ռուսի, Ամերիկացիի, եւ Ֆրանսացիի պէս,
Իսկ երբեք չտեսայ իր Հայ ըլլալը:

Բայց ո՞վ է Հայը:

Ինծի կ'ըսեն՝ հաատքն է որ քեզ Հայ կը դարձնէ:

Ես եղայ քրիստոնէայ,

Եղայ մահմետական,

Հրեայ, պուտայական, հինտոյական, եւ անաստուած:

Բայց ուրիշներ այ եղած են այս բաները:

Ինծի կ'ըսեն՝ ունեցուածքդ է որ քեզ Հայ կը դարձնէ:

Ես ունիմ հարստութիւն,

Ունիմ առողջութիւն,

Ուսում, շուն մը, եւ կատու մը:

Բայց ուրիշներ այ ունին այս բաները :

Ինծի կ'ըսեն՝ ինչի որ կը վերածուի՝ այդ է որ քեզ Հայ կը դարձնէ:

Ես եղայ գիւտարար:

Եղայ շինարար,

Պաշտպան, սիրելեան,.....
