

Ils demandent justice pour les Arméniens victimes du génocide

This year, on the 105th commemoration of the Armenian Genocide, we are apart. This commemoration is unlike those before, in which our communities came together from far and wide to remember our martyrs in marches, vigils, and gatherings. This year is different. Though we cannot stand together physically, we are united while apart, and our message is stronger than ever. From everywhere around the world, in every language, we speak out in one strong voice, demanding justice for the Armenian Genocide.
