

Dear NAASR Friends and Supporters,

The Adana Massacres—really a wider series of events in the Adana region—were a key moment in the unwinding of relations between the Ottoman government and the Armenian community. For too long these massacres were not adequately studied.

La base américaine d'Incirlik (proche d'Adana) est bâtie sur des terrains spolés à des Arméniens . L'armée américaine loue ces terrains d'Arméniens . Donc les héritiers des terrains subissent une perte d'exploitation depuis ans . A ce titre , ils ont droit à une compensation . Il avait commencé de compléter ce dossier .

This week in 2009, NAASR organized a symposium called "The Adana Massacres of 1909: Legacy and Perspectives" to mark their centennial, bringing together a group of scholars to examine different aspects of the devastating events.

We invite you to revisit this important program and to deepen your understanding of the Adana Massacres.

1. Bedross Der Matossian, "Revisiting the Adana Massacres of 1909: Revolution, Power, and Violence"
2. Lou Ann Matossian, "Missionary Witness: The Christie Family Papers on the Cilician Massacres of 1909"
3. Aram Arkun, "Armenian Self-Defense During the 1909 Massacres: The Case of Dörtyol (Chorkmarzban)"
4. Dikran Kaligian, "Impact of the Adana Massacre on ARF-CUP Relations"
