

M.A.M. mouvement éducatif est le gardien de la langue arménienne

The word "HOME" can be considered the cultural code of Armenians. "HOME" connects us with our past and collective memory. And who is the binding person? Mother.

Mother-Mom-M.A.M

And what do we call our native language? We call it Mother language. The idea of the educational movement "M.A.M." was born from the realization that the Armenian language plays a vital role in preserving our national identity and culture.

"M.A.M " teaches: through carefully designed educational programs, we want to teach the next generation of Armenians all over the world to speak, write, read, and also to know and love the Armenian heritage, culture, and traditions.

We believe that the Armenian language is the key that can unlock the full potential of the Armenian gene, revealing new layers of national consciousness and belonging. Knowing the Armenian language means knowing who you are and where you come from.

The emphasis is on teaching the Armenian language through express letter learning, reading, listening to Armenian songs and fairy tales, vocabulary development through entertaining and cognitive games, group works, analytical discussions of history and literature, and trips. And most importantly communication with peers and famous Armenians.
