

23 Mai 2024 : Médiéval : le Royaume de Cilicie : Eskijian Museum

....transformations

of spatial and temporal perceptions, communications, and material capital in the Mediterranean environment during the 12th-14th centuries, which had a direct impact on the transformations of the societies of both Western European and Eastern Mediterranean countries.

When at the end of the 12th century, King Levon I of Cilician Armenia (as Prince Levon II - 1187-1198, as King: 1198-1219) united a huge part of the northeastern coast of the Mediterranean Sea, Cilician Armenia became involved in the Mediterranean trade relations. The establishment of Venetian, Genoese, Pisan, Florentine, Catalan, and other communities in Cilician Armenia took place according to the same formula as in other...

source : Eskijian Museum

THURSDAY, MAY 23, 2024 | 6:00 PM PT

UCLA BUNCHE HALL, ROOM 10383 & ZOOM

LEARN MORE & RSVP AT bit.ly/PAI05-23-24 Zohrab Guevorguyan, Ph.D.

Fulbright Visiting Scholar at the Promise Armenian Institute at

UCLA (University of California Los Angeles)

