ARMENIA'S REFORMS WILL BE UNDOABLE WITHOUT A CLEAR POLITICAL ROADMAP AND A COMMITMENT TO THE RULE OF LAW

Since the start of the program in 2012, the country has made significant progress in reforming its judicial system, strengthening its legal framework, and improving its business environment. However, the country still faces significant challenges, including corruption, weak institutions, and a lack of political will to implement reforms. The country's economic growth has slowed down, and the government has failed to address the needs of the population. The country's political system is still dominated by a few powerful families, and there is a lack of transparency and accountability. The country's reform process is still in its early stages, and it will take time to see the results of the reforms.
